

Monologue en Anglais - Hachim

Hi my name is Hachim and I live in London. I was actually born and raised in Birmingham but I moved to London for university back in 2008 and I've never left. It's a great place to live as there's always so many things going on.

It's true that the weather's not great but it's never too bad. I don't mind the cold, it's just the rain that is a bit annoying. Believe it or not - I even find it a bit hot in summer!

My favourite seasons here are definitely spring and autumn but summer is good for music festivals and street concerts. It was actually at a jazz festival last summer where I met my girlfriend Rebecca. It was funny because neither of us like jazz! We'd both gone along with friends and we met in the line for the hot food. There were so many people at the festival and not enough food vendors and so the line was really long. We ended up standing next to each other for 45 minutes and I fell in love in that time. She is truly amazing.

It was the best concert ever and I was very happy that my friends had dragged me along! After finally getting our food I invited Rebecca back to where my friends and I were sitting. We stayed together for hours that night and we've been together ever since.

She works as a speech therapist in the Charing Cross Hospital and luckily it's only a short walk from my work in Fulham. I work as a high school teacher for boys teaching maths and physics. We often meet at lunchtime in the park for a quick picnic and it's always the best part of my day. She's great and I'm hoping that we will move in together later this year.

I'd like to get a flat around the Fulham area but the rents are ridiculously expensive here. Even a small studio is out of our price range so I think we will probably be looking in the suburbs to the west of London. If we could find something that is about 45 minutes away in the train at a correct price that would be nice.

Ideally a small flat or townhouse with two bedrooms and maybe even a small garden or balcony. Near a park would be ideal too as we love to go walking and have picnics. Rebecca really likes dogs too so maybe we could get one as well.

Rebecca's parents live near Heathrow and so she would like to get something near them but I'm not too keen. Not because I don't like her parents though!

I do like them and actually, they are really nice but I don't think that I could handle the noise from the planes. I'm a very light sleeper and I need a nice, quiet bedroom to get a full night's sleep.
